Although normally reclusive and pensive as a person, he can also be quite charismatic at times, and knows how to affect his personality over a crowd and rally supporters for his black causes. The only thing greater than his lust for power is his hubris. He loathes having to fight for himself or direct confrontation, which is why his tactic is so often to corrupt and infect others to do his bidding for him. Do not let you fool you however, his power in combat is enormous, and was one of his attributes that won him godship. He wants whatever he sees and in his mind it is already his, he is just punishing the world for pretending otherwise.
